Mr. And Mrs. Megginson Celebrate Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Sun.

Among the many guests who called to celebrate the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Megginson, Appomattox, was the pianist who played for their wedding at Hermon Church, Piney Mountain, fifty years ago, Mrs. L. N. Hernall (the former Lala Barlow).

All of the Megginson's children were home for the celebration held at the American Legion home on Sunday afternoon from two until five. The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth, centered by two golden slippers filled with yellow chrysanthemums and roses. Golden tapers were placed in crystal teardrop candlesbra.

Golden punch was served by Mrs. Watson Brittle, Chase City; and Mrs. Jim Megginson, Norfolk with a golden handled ladle hung with lily-of-the-valley. The anniversary cake was laden with yellow icing roses and topped with golden bells. Mrs. Frank Young, Colonial Heights, Va.; and Mrs. Riley Megginson, Appomattox, served each guest.

A number of attractive gifts were displayed on a lace covered table in front of the fireplace.

Jim Megginson, of Norfolk, sang "How Great Thou Art" accompanied by Mrs. Hernecll.

The Megginsons have eight children, thirteen grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. The children include Riley Thomas Megginson, Wallace Megginson, Mrs. Harold Nash, and Johnny Megginson, all of Appomattox plus Mrs. W. B. Gilliam, Manassas; Mrs. Paul Hughes, Richmond; and Mrs. C. E. Phelps, Burkeville.

Local Scenes In CBS T-V Series

The Commonwealth of Virginia will be featured in a new television series called "America" beginning in the fall. A camera crew from the Jack Douglas Organization, Hollywood, California toured over 3,000 miles of the state during May. The McLean House was filmed in some detail as was the Guillaume painting of the meeting of Lee and Grant. Dr. Thomas McHugh, the film's producer, who filmed many of the early Walt Disney nature movies, said that the Virginia film is tentatively entitled "Carry Me Back" and will be a half hour in length and in color.

Chiles Larson, of the State's Division of Public Relations and Advertising, who accompanied the camera team, said over 6,000 feet of film were taken of many of the scenic, historic, cultural, and recreational aspects of the state. He said that the main emphasis will be on Virginia's travel attractions, but that the final selection will be made by the film editors.

Most of the 163 CBS-TV affiliates throughout the United States will carry the new series to an estimated audience in the millions. This marks the second production to feature the Old Dominion for the new fall television season. The state will also be featured over French, Belgium and French- speaking Canadian stations in a series called "Around the USA." Filming on this was completed earlier in the year. Mr. Larson also accompanied the camera crew in its production of Virginia subjects for that series.

"Creative Chemistry" is not a dull subject. I recall a book, by E. E. Slosson, with that title. He was saying that science changes the world. In discussing how the Age of Chivalry was transformed by the invention of gunpowder, . . he said, "You cannot fence with a canonball nor over-awe it with a plumed hat." The Bible yes, but can you quote from a book you read thirty years ago and haven't seen since? The Spanish immortal, Cervantes, showed the fulity of fencing with a windmill.
